The Repeal of the Force Bill.

There never was a truer maxim than the one which says that curses are like pigeons, for they always come home to roost. And there never was a stronger application of the maxim than in the case of the Force Bill of 1853, which extinguishes the power of the States to resist federal usurpation. It was intended to coerce South Carolina to accept the high protective policy of 1828, which that State has already resisted, and was preparing to oppose by what she held to be the constitutional remedy of nullification. It provided for summary proceedings to collect the duties on imports in that State. It secured the federal officers from all responsibility to the State authorities in the discharge of their duties under it. At the same time it disabled the courts of the State from any action against any aggressions committed upon citizens, under color of their office while discharging the duties which the new bill enforced. If any federal officer should shoot down a merchantwho defended his goods. from what he considered an unconstitutional law-a law odious to his fellow-citizens, as well as detrimental to himself; a law which had been solemnly condemned by his Legislature, and by a convention of the people of his State, to the same effect, the Criminal Courts of the State were yet to be deprived of all power to avenge the merchant's death by punishing the slayer. The means to that end provided by the bill, were at fault in the seventh section, which authorized any federal Judge to issue a writ of HABEAS CORPUS, taking the criminal from State custody, and also bring him from responsibility to the State laws against homicide. This usurpation of power, like all the rest chronicled in history, was indicated by the declared necessity of the case; the old plea of all the tyrants, who have, since the beginning, abused mankind, Mr. Wilkins, a Pennsylvania Senator, was Chairman of the Judiciary Committee, and reported the bill with just such an appeal as might have been expected, to the peculiar circumstances of the case. "He admitted the importance of this bill, but he viewed its importance as arising not out of the provisions of the bill itself, but out of the state of affairs in South Carolina, to which the bill had reference." Mr. Webster gave it his support because he believed more in the general principle of federal supremacy than in the doctrine of peculiar circumstances. The Force Bill was supported and passed by a coalition of Northern men under Wilkins and Webster with Jackson's friends. It became the law, and has been the law from 1833 to the present time. It is believed by many of our best minds to be a grievous attack upon the federal system. And yet what a warning its history presents to cool the zeal of those who, under the supposed pressure of emergencies, are sometimes willing to disregard the Constitution, and throw away the rights of the States. The Tariff Compromise Act of 1832-3, passed by agreement between the extremes of opinion represented by Clay and Calhoun, prevented any question ever arising under the Force Bill in the South where it was intended to strike. The imposts being reduced to a low figure, were paid by the merchants of Charleston, Richmond and New Orleans, and there was none of that on with revenue officers, which the unwis. legislators of that date had taken such un consititutional measures to anticipate. All the persons intended to be victimized, made good then escape; but, it must not be supposed, therefore, that the Force bill had done no harm; and certainly, not that it is now incapable of further mischief. As the most signal example of retribution in American history, the curse has fallen upon its authors, with even more than the weight it was to have descended upon certain other heads it had devoted to destruction. The law sleps street, 'Wm. McCore; Brighton, J. H. Price, jr. twenty-five years; but on a most unexpected day and occasion it swept over our State of Ohio in proceeding, under the Fugitive Slave Act. Marshals and deputies, who had shot at rescuers and sympathizers, and were bound over or imprisoned for intending, feloniously, to kill our people, were all DELIVERED WHOLESALE BY HABEAS CORPUS. The State of Ohio got not even a chance to talk of of the way of the federal authority. Here are citizens and officers advised, surrounded, and, indeed, the loudest voices proclaiming her degradation, were those of Senator Pugh and Congressman Vallandingham. Whole districts in the interior were terrified by arrests, and indictments, and the Clarke county cases will not soon be forgotten among the trophies of Buchanan and Black, aided by some of our State officials who glorified themselves in the stench and safety of that African campaign. But let it be observed, also, that the Northern authors of the Force Bill of 1833 were its violators in 1857. This lesson of history is a manifestation of the maxim that curses roost at home.

OUR ERICSSON ENGINE .- We have an accumulation of letters containing enquiries of our 'Caloric." IT WORKS WELL-have had it in operation for four months, driving Hoe's double cylinder press, and always found it to come fully up to its requirements.

When we first started this engine we thought it a wonderful piece of machinery-that wonderment has increased day by day. Why not? The longer we use it the better it goes. There has cause and effect are completely knocked in the shead. The effect is GREAT while the cause is really insignificant. The engine is not complicated, as some suppose. It is the simplest machine, as a motor, ever invented by man.

Ericsson, after twenty-seven years of application to the invention of a Caloric engine, has at length triumphed. He has blessed the world. The world will now bless him.

Local News.

DAILY PRESS AND FASHIONS FOR JULY,-To the ladies we will say, we shall have something specially for you, on Monday. Arrangements have been made for illustrating. now and then, the columns of the Daily Press, with fine engravings of the fashions. We begin with the MORNING HEAD-DRESS.

H. P. THOMAS, American Express Messenger, Chicago to Indianapolis: and G. C. Meredith, Messenger Adams Express Company, Indianapolis to Cincinnati, will accept our thanks for great favors in the news line.

CONGREGATIONAL Church services are being held each Sunday, in the Clinton street Mission S. S. building, near Baymiller street.

THE Y. M. C. Union has, we learn, prepared and will use every Sabbath, commencing to-morrow, a moveable, or "Highway and Hedge Pulpit," from which there will be free preaching.

REV. MR. BOYNTON has delivered twelve sermons in the Opera House, and gives the concluding one, making the baker's dozen, in that hall, to-morrow. About one half the expenses have been collected from attendants.

THE result of the long discussion in Committee of the Whole of the City Council last night, was to agree as to certain plans to dispose of grants of Street Railroad routes. A majority evidently are in favor of opening to competition the privileges, to be under the direction of City Council. The whole matter is to be discussed at a special meeting on Monday

A DOUBLE CRIME.-We learn from Mr. Bradley, of Adams' Express, that about six o'clock last evening a man named Goddard, residing in Vernon, Indiana, who had separated from his wife on account of some domestic difficulties, sought her out and deliberately shot her; the ball took effect, killing her instantly. Goddard then cut his own throat, inflicting so severes wound that it was thought he would die during last night.

THERE is none of the city ordinances more frequently violated, than that prohibiting the overloading of wagons, and none which should be more strictly enforced. The practice of overloading teams is greatly destructive to the bowlder-pavements, and from this cause alone, the treasury is annually depleted thousands of dollars. Yesterday afternoon Policemen Smith and Edwards arrested a teamster, named Henry Honcamp, who had on his wagon aload of stone weighing at least two thousand pounds more than the law allows. We are pleased to see the officers making a move in this matter.

GERMAN MILITARY FESTIVAL .- The German Yager Company went on a pic-nic to Ross Hill, yesterday morning. Among the purposes of this Company is that of benevolence; and in their procession was a carriage containing four ladies, widows of deceased members of the Company. Also a car drawn by four horses and beautifully decorated with evergreens. In this car was seated twelve orphan children. The festival at the Hill consisted in dancing, social conversation and target shooting. A salute was fired at five clock in the morning. The procession was a large and imposing one, and the attendance at the Hill during the day, of visitors, was very numerous.

Tun following are the names of Superintendents and Sabbath Schools of the Methodist Episcopal church of the city:

Walnut Hills, M. B. Haseltine, M. Kendall, E. Thurp; East Pearl street, W. F. Thorn; Wesley Chapel, James S. Burdsall; Ninth street, F. H. Maciay; Morris, B. Fogle and B. T. Horton; Union, S. H. Burton; Park street, W. W. Magill; Carr street, James Stewart; Christie, Dr. E. B. Stevens; Finley, C. F. Brook t: York street, T. C. O'Kane; Raper, Wm. W. Sn. dgrass; Ashbury, John E. Gibbons; Mt. Aubur to, Geo. Warrington.

Gerigian: Race street, P. Pinger; Everett street, W. Waillies; Buckeye, M. Ihle. Missi ons: Deer creek, J. W. Dale; Plum

Germ an: Carr street, H. Kolbe; Brighton, Plam street and Fulton, R. A. W. Brushl.

In the E'ay of cheap amusements there are but few cities, we think, can best Chicago. Yesterday we saw a bill announcing a grand ball to be held last night on State street, at which the admittance was to be TEN cents; this to be refunded by two glasses of beer. The object then for a price for admission at all, was to keep the company extremely select.—[Chicago Press and Tribune, 24th.

Very cheap place indeed. Many of our seher violated peace and dignity. It was a date "select" Councilmen got drank up there, question with her people how to get out and-it "didn't cost the," a cent!"

Parts of the same lots were sold to Owen Conlen for the same amount. Payments one-half cash, balance in six months, with interest.

We intend to furnish our Newport column with all the items of news we can gather in and about our city, hoping thereby to make the paper interesting.

TAKING a stroll through the city the other day, we noticed the shingles of seven different lawyers, three bankers, three lodges of I. O. O. F. and two Masonic, two drug-stores, five physicians, two rolling mills, two foundries, one livery stable, five public schools, four feed stores, one piano forte manufacturer, two dry been no "give out" to it to the present. Not goods stores and one hardware store. It is a cent has it cost for repairs. Our notions of supposed that Newport now contains about ten thousand inhabitants. Building and improvements of various kinds have taken a fresh start. and are going on at a rapid rate.

Last evening, just after dark, and as the Newport Ferry was leaving the Cincinnati shore, a man who seemed very unwell or had large corns on his feet, attempted to get on the beat, but could not make it in one jump, and went overboard, and had it not been for the timely exertions of Capt. Brogan, of the night ferry, he would undoubtedly have met with a watery grave.

COL. THOS. L. JONES, of Newport, is the Opposition candidate for Congress, in the Tenth

Tue Republicans held a convention at W. S. Bailey's "Free South" office, last night, for the purpose of nominating candidates for Congress and the Legislature. As the convention seemed rather private, we have no particulars.

THE coffee-house keepers feel sorely disappointed because the Sunday ordinance was not repealed at last meeting of Council, and various are the epithets heaped on the heads of the members who voted in the negative.

THE Newport Belle will run up Licking to Ingleside during Sunday, starting at 8 o'clock, and making hourly trips. Fare each way 10c.

GREELEY DRAWS A COMPARISON.—In one of Mr. Greeley's late letters from the Kansas former letter, as to the usual and welcome residence of these venomous serpents in the prairie dog's burrow. The evidence is too direct and reliable to be gainsayed. A creditable witness testifies that he and others undertook to drown a prairie dog in his domicil, and when sufficient water had been rapidly poured in, out came a prairie dog, an owl and rattlesnake all together. In another case a tremendous rain raised a creek so that it suddenly overflowed a prairie dog town, when the general stampede of prairie dogs, owls, and rattlesnakes was a sight to behold. It is idle to attempt holding out against facts so I have pondered this anomaly until I think I fully comprehend it. The case is much like that of some newspaper establishments, whose pro-prietors, it is said, find it convenient to keep on their staff "a broth of a boy" from Tippe-rary, standing six feet two in his stockings and measuring a yard or more across the shoulders, who stands ready, with an illegant brogue, a twinkle in his eye and a hickory sapling firmly grasped in his dexter fist, to respond to al choleric, peremptory customers, who call of a morning, hot with wrath and bristling with cowhides, to demand a parley with the editor. The Cayota is a gentleman of inquiring, investigating turn, who is an adept at excavation, and whose fondness for Prairie-Dog is more ardent than flattering. To dig one out and digest him would be an easy task, if he were alone in his den, or with only the Owl as his partner, but when the firm is known to be Prairie-Dog, Rattlesnake & Co., the Cayota's passion for subteranean researches is materially The Rattlesnake is to the concern what the Fighting Editor is to the journalistic organizations aforesaid. And thus, while my faith is enlarged, is my reason satisfied.

A Modean " House of Atracta,"-The Livingston (La.) Reporter has the following singu-lar relation of the casualties which have happened to members of a family in that parish. It says: "On Saturday last, the 4th inst., while a negro boy about 16 years old, belonging to Capt. James H. Harvey, of Hog Branch, in this parish, was holding a gun (it is supposed between his knees,) it suddenly went off and blew off the front part of his head, causing instant death. He was, it appears, seated in a chair, and endeavoring to pull on a boot when the catastrophe occurred. There seems to be a fatality hanging over the Harvey family.— Within our recollection, some twelve or four-teen years only, the following sudden and violent deaths have occurred in this family. First, a stepmother was gored and trampled to death by one of her own cows; then four daughters, one son-in-law, two grandchildren and two slaves were lost at one fell swoop on the Lake Maurepas, on the burnt-up steamer, Piny Woods; then a son was stabbed, disemboweled and slain by a drunken and furious wretch then a negro child was burnt to death at home and under their own eyes; and lastly, this poor negro boy of their own raising was thus accidentally killed."

THE ATLANTIC FREEY .- Twenty-two steam ships arrived at this port, Boston, and Quebec, during the month of May, from Europe. Twenty-one steamers in thirty-one days! Al-most as many went the other way. It is only twenty-one years since the little Cork steamer, Sirius, the first to cross the Atlantic, made her appearance off the Battery. She was eighteen days in making the passage. Now it is accomplished in nine days. The arrival of the Sirus produced a sensation throughout the coun Now the arrival of twenty-two steamers in one month senreely excites a remark. Tem ra mutantur. - Scientific American.

SUBSTITUTE FOR TOBACCO .- "Any person," says the Colonial (West India) Standard, "who knows anything of the fragrance of the Pi-mento when in full blow, may form some idea of it by a pipe charged and lighted with the dried berry simply crushed in coarse bits. It can not be well smoked in short pipes, but with the long cherry stick of a meerschaum it af-fords a treat beyond anything known in the use of tobacco. The coolies and native laborers are bringing Pimento into use in the place of to bacco. The substitute for tobacco, we would suggest, is common sense. Tobacco is "weed" that should be eradicated-not cultivated.

An aged Italian laborer presented himself before Louis Napoleon a short time after his entrance into Genos, at the head of fifteen stalwart sons, and informed the Emperor that he also had ten thriving girls ut home. This so astonished and pleased the Emperor that he gave the old man five hundred francs.

The new Chicago directory contains 35,000 names; an increase of 6,000 in a single year.

The Newport Town Ball Club meets at three o'clock this afternoon on the play-grounds for the purpose of exercising in their favorite sports.

The following is a list of the lots sold at public auction on Thursday last, by H. S. Miles & Co., auctioneers, and H. Buchanan, real estate agent. They are all in the southern subdivision of the city plat, and are all 25 by 100 feet deep. Lot No. 24 sold to Antonio Turk for $245; lot No. 70 to Henry Kivet for $185; edly pieces of Mr. Bannister's balloon. This is the same balloon from which Mr. Thurston fell. Do cars ever run off the track? Do collisions happen? Do steamboats ever blow up?

The Ninth-street Reformed Dutch Church in New York has been sold to A. T. Stewart, of the Marble Palace celebrity. He now owns Broadway, one block from Grace Church, ex-cept one lot. It is understood that he will purchase the remaining lot. On this square, rumor says he will place a sumptuous store that will not be equalled by any one in America, and the down-town palace will be devoted to the heavy trade that is coming along.
